

Ultrasound

We have three different ultrasound scanners, one for small animals, one equine and one lightweight cattle scanner. These ultrasound machines are in constant use and allow us to see in real time the soft tissues we want to examine.

Pregnancy diagnosis for cattle, horses and dogs and cat is the most common application for these machines, but they are also frequently used for abdominal and cardiac examination in dogs and cats.